Dear Mr Steve Mew,

I have a keen interest in your company and would love to be apart of the development team. I believe I am fit for the job because of how eager and keen I am to learn and discover new concepts. I enjoy being challenged and am always ready to take a challenge head on and learn from my mistakes to become a better programmer. I have also taken keen interest into cloud computing with my superthesis project, in which I am building a webapp (and a phone app) for a smarthome ecosystem. In this and through my many other experiences I have also gained key insight into the value and importance of customer service and feedback. Ensuring the customer is not only satisfied with the product but also kept up to date on any issues or changes that have occurred.

Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing a response,
Daniel
